1. Corresponding Author's Financial Disclosure

We regard a relationship that requires disclosure as a relationship (on the part of the author, any member of the author's immediate family, or any individual with whom the author has a significant relationship) with any entity that may potentially benefit from, or be harmed by, the publication of the results of the research or study. Disclosure is also necessary if the author (or any member of the author's immediate family, or any individual with whom the author has a significant relationship) would personally benefit financially from the publication of the results of the research or study. For purposes of this form, we wish to know about relationships currently, or in the past 2 years, that are relevant to the manuscript being submitted.

Category of relationship requiring disclosure	Please indicate disclosures by filling in your name in the "Yes" box below. For each name listed, include the name of the company or companies and if the category includes more than one item (e.g. consultancies, speaking fees, or honoraria; patents or licenses; received or pending), indicate which applies. If necessary, provide further details on an attached sheet.

2. Please list commercial entities that provided support for this study. (Do not include support from governmental or nonprofit entities here; all support from commercial, governmental, or nonprofit entities must be listed on the manuscript.)

3. Study Activities

The Uniform Requirements for Manuscripts Submitted to Biomedical Journals (available at http://www.icmje.org/ethical_1author.html) stipulate that authors should provide a description of their individual contribution, and editors may publish that information. Individuals must meet criteria 1 (1a, 1b, and/or 1c), 2, and 3 below to qualify for authorship. Please indicate (by filling in your name) the aspects of the work for which you had responsibility.

Authorship criteria	Name(s)
1a. Substantial contributions to study conception and design
1b. Substantial contributions to acquisition of data
1c. Substantial contributions to analysis and interpretation of data
2. Drafting the article or revising it critically for important intellectual content
3. Final approval of the version of the article to be published
Other critical study activities (specify):

4. Involvement of Individuals Not Listed as Authors

Please provide the names and institutional affiliations of individuals who had a substantial role in the study or manuscript preparation (e.g., one or more of the activities included in question 3), who are not included in the list of authors. For each individual, please describe the activity or activities, the reason the individual is not listed as an author, and the manner in which the individual's participation is being disclosed to readers (e.g., in Acknowledgments or Role of the Study Sponsor).
